nessed than the meeting between the survivors of that awful ocean tragedy. After reading of such terrible experiences the story of a young man jumping overboard into the smooth waters of S. F. bay to rescue a companion loses some of the weight that might otherwise attach to it. Yet it was a brave deed. Wilson Mizner and some companions were on the ferry Oakland when by a misstep Desmond Cosgrave went against and over the railing. Mizner lost an instant in throwing a life preserver to his friend, and hastily adjusting one to himself plunged in, handicapped by his heavy clothing. Ten minutes were consumed in the bungling attempts to lower a boat but the young men kept afloat. Had Mizner not showed his alert wit his friend might have drowned before his eyes while awaiting the tardy movements in lowering a boat evidently carried purely for ornament.

When women operatives strike they do so with a literal translation of the word. Some Buffalo girls in a rag house struck for higher wages Friday, and because two of their number stood firm for their places the others set upon and beat them, tore their hair and raiment, and generally mauled them. A body of police had to be called to the rescues, and it is safe to wager that they did not relish their errand. This was a sort of sectional hurricane and had nothing to do with the furious wind storm that traversed western New York at about the same time. Chatauquo and Erie counties suffered most severely. One man was killed by a falling barn at Springville, trees were uprooted, buildings lifted bodily in the air, and a "general uprising" took place. The house of George H. Talcott, at Talcottville, Lewis County, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, and the bodies of Talcott and his brother were found in the ruins. The damage done to buildings by the storm is not less than $100,000. An estimate cannot be given of the ruin in vineyards and orchards. One does not need to live out in the wild and woolly West in order to have all the luxuries of the season.

Mrs. John W. Mackay has arrived in S. F. from "Eyrup." Her likeness is blazoned forth in one of our dailies. The lady has a "ruling" nose. Perhaps the sage deduction is drawn from inference—a case of effect before the cause, for we all know how she (or is it her wealth?) has ruled Paris and London, or at least that part of those scyphantic cities that crawls in the wake of the bonanza king's wife. What a pity it is to be very wealthy; in the glitter of the gold the better, truer, modest qualities shrink back dismayed. Mrs. Mackay is a devoted wife, a fond mother and a generous benefactress, and yet when her name comes before the public it is nearly always in connection with her money and her royally-planned entertainments. By the way, the would-be slayer of her husband has his trial on May 4th. Mr. Mackay has no desire to prosecute the man, but "the ends of justice" (how frayed out they must be from constant use!) must be served, and W. C. Rippey must be brought before its bar.

Santa Barbara's annual pasqua de flores is being held this week. This grand flower carnival, is the great society event of the southern counties and people from far and near attend.

Now that Mr. and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Miss Fair are in San Francisco on a visit, society is unanimous in giving them a genuine Pacific coast welcome. Luncheons, dinners, receptions follow each other in succession, and they greet old and true friends wherever they turn. Miss Fair has attained her majority and the year spent in New York under the apt tutelage of her sister has added finishing touches to a sweet nature.

Of course the nuptials of George R. Shreve and Miss Jennie Watson, to be celebrated at St. Luke's church next Wednesday evening, will be a society event of importance. Miss Bessie Shreve will be maid of honor.

Frank Godfrey, editor of the Honolulu Paradise of the Pacific is in town a guest at the Occidental.

Alameda has quietly decided not to be ignored at the World's Fair, in spite of enemy Yelland's picture of Alameda—Behind-the-Tree. But it is the ladies (bless their hearts!) who have downed the tyrant. Following is a brief story of the result of their efforts: They have sent a California wood mantel, beautifully carved: an embroidered drape for the same representing Queen Isabella handing out her jewels to Christopher while Ferdinand, good spouse that he is, looks on approvingly from his throne, wondering a bit if Chris. will really accomplish anything. Then there is an onyx clock, to which a tale hangs. The twelve characters on the dial represent twelve small circular views of points of note in Alameda. On the front face of the base of the timepiece are these words:

"Dawn of Woman's Era,
Time to Reap the Harvest."

One bright and original little woman, Mrs. M. L. Chandler, was inspired with an idea. The two vacant panels at the sides of the dial should be niches for statues, and what more appropriate than Dawn and Reaper to carry out the idea of the motto. Failing in her quest to get a model for Dawn, Mrs. Chandler posed for it herself and the result is beautiful. No less charming is the Reaper of Mrs. Mary Dixon a school teacher in Alameda. While Frona Eunice Wait has been doing a heap of waiting for California "wenuses" to offer themselves in competition, these ladies have unostentatiously made far better use of the idea and are now on their way to Chicago, indelibly portrayed. It is pardonable to assert that they will be there—on time.

Are we to be, or not to be, a part of the Great Republic, seems to be the burning question of the day, and one we had rather leave to wiser heads than ours to solve; and while great statesmen are wrestling with this momentous question, we want to have a little "porewore" with you on some other subjects, that concern you as well as ourselves.

Has it not occurred to you that you've been wearing that old hat long enough! In these progressive times if you intend to be "in it," you've got to keep pace with fashion. No matter how otherwise well dressed you may be, unless your hat is the correct thing you bear a shabby appearance.

We have already laid in a stock of the Latest Hats of the coming Spring and Summer styles, in hard felts, soft felts and straws, and including a line of the celebrated "Fidora" Hats, at present all the rage in the United States. There is therefore, no necessity for you to hang on any longer to that old Tile that bears such a strong resemblance to the hat "your father wore."

Believing that business will be better in the near future, we have not hesitated to keep our stock full in all lines. Take collars for instance: We have almost everything you could wish for. If you wear a standing collar, just come in and take a look at our "Narenta" or "Ardonia;" or if you prefer a turn down collar, try the "Winnipeg" or "Goswell;" we have have lots of others, and can't fail to suit you. Cuffs in abundance, links or otherwise.

Neckwear in profusion, scarfs windsors 4-in-hands, and a special lot of "Boys' Bows;" suspenders in great variety, leather and woven ends, good strong, serviceable goods.

We might go on indefinitely, but space is valuable, and to enumerate everything we carry would fill a pretty fair sized Book. If there is anything you want in the men's line, just drop in and see us, and if we can't suit you, we don't believe any one can.

If you should want a pair of nice shoes, let us try a hand at fitting you. Did it ever occur to you

How much a man is like his shoes; For instance, both a soul may lose. Both have been tanned; Both are made tight by Cobblers; Both get left and right; Both need a mate to be complete; And both are made to go on feet.

They both need healing; oft are sold, And both in time will turn to mould. With shoes the last is first; with men The first shall be the last; and when The shoes wear out, they're mended new;

When men wear out, they're men dead too.

They both are trod upon, and both Will tread on others nothing loth. Both have their ties, and both incline When polished, in the world to shine; And both peg out. Now would you choose To be a man, or be his shoes.

ISLAND POTATOES,

Grown From New Zealand Seed.

Island Potatoes have heretofore given but scant satisfaction to local consumers. This has been partly attributable to the fact that they were in the hands of growers of small means who desired to realize on their crops as quickly as possible, to obtain which potatoes have invariably been harvested in an unripe condition. The undersigned proposes to market none other than produce in full maturity. Our Potatoes are grown from the Best New Zealand Seed, and from lots now coming to market are pronounced to be superior to any imported article. Shipments are received by every week's steamer and will be sold at special rates to the trade.
